A WICKED GOOD TIME

The spirit of WHS lives through the students that walk these halls. We show our spirit in our voices, presence, and banners of support draped over the balconies. The familiar medium of our pride-filled spirit is spray paint on a bed sheet. From the basic "Go Team!" cheer to catchy phrases like "Girls soccer, We're not Clowning Around!" These scraps of linen express a theme; each one supports a team, friend, or reminds the student body of someone's birthday. The lobby becomes the display case, a panorama of the thoughts, feelings, and events of the day.

There is also a life force at WHS shown through this spirit. It's a feeling of enthusiasm that comes out in the classrooms, on the playing fields, in the band room, on the weekends, and even in the parking lot (that is, with the help of spray paint).

Our spirit comes out in our voices, lurks in the shadows of the lower lot at night, and keeps us up late in our garages, perfecting sheets for the third floor. The school, class, and our lives wouldn't be whole without this unique force that keeps us going.

After Hours

Life at Westborough High School is quite unique. That individuality begins with our balconies. For discussing weekend plans or checking out members of the opposite sex, the balconies are an absolute necessity to WHS students. Even though the tradition of the "SENIOR BALCONY" has almost been totally abandoned by the class of 1991, the other classes seem to be anxious to pick up on the ancient balcony ritual. Whatever the case may be, our lives are enriched by the architecture of our school that provides a gathering spot for all the students.

The weekends are a totally different matter. For those fortunate enough to have a license, the weekend is something anxiously anticipated from 8:00 am Monday on. Owning a car means trips to Boston, Framingham, Worcester, or the usual Saturday night cruise of the Westboro 500. "Wheels" are a necessity.

John Schaefer can not help but laugh as he feels Jeff Cook's bulging biceps.

91--ANY QUESTIONS?

Abdows, the traditional morning eatery for seniors was hit once again by the class of 91.

We came in our tye-dyes not really with an appetite for an Abdow's breakfast, but more hungry for the excitement of having senior authority at WHS. Breakfast didn't last too long essentially because more food flew through the air than entered the mouth.

The excitement didn't stop with breakfast. The class of 91 fled the Abdow's parking lot in their cars for school full of underclassmen that awaited the traditional entry. The cars passed over the decorated driveway displaying their class spirit and warning the newcomers of their presence. Seniors paraded into school yelling, throwing confetti, and taking over their balcony. Although seniors are rarely spotted on the balcony, the traditional take over made everything official. The class of 91, ANY QUESTIONS??

Jeff Hopkins is victorious over Dave Moynihan in the footsie game under the table.

Well that kind of says it all ... Doesn't it?

Kim Yankee, Hollie Smith, and Jenn Dinino know its going to be a great year!

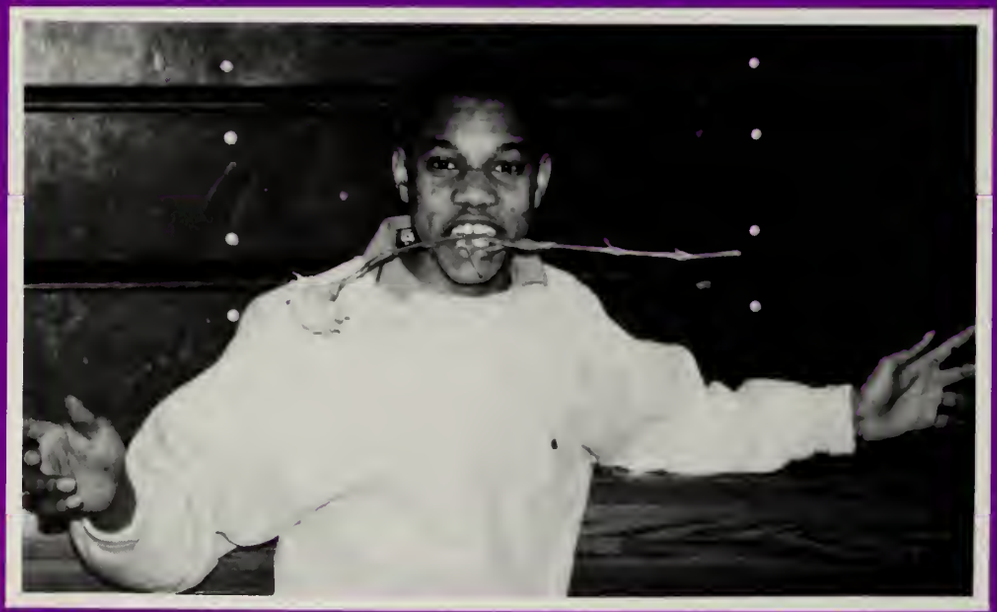
THE COMIC SPIRIT

The Personalities in the class of 88, I can honestly say are the best Westboro High has had in years. If you have been so fortunate as to have had class with these guys you know the feeling of laughing like never before; this livens up the monotonous day.

Take Kevin McNamara and Rob "Burl" McCullough: these two comics always have a quick one liner to snap back at a teacher. Who can take a joke better than Mr. Trahan and Mr. Sharpe?

Then there's another breed of comedian — the type who always provide a perfect picture opportunity or a standing slapstick improvisation. For example, who's better at unfocusing the direction of a class than the likes of Tom Burgis, Darren Killeen, Rob Panciar or Dave Hathaway? Just ask Mrs. Cosmerro.

There are only a few of the class of 88's All Star performers who make the epic journey through the struggle of high school that much easier.



"Are that you, Mac, you nutter!" — Tom Gaddy is a real character.

Alexis Marchant, Tim Lewman, Amy Quick, and Drew Porier pose outside Indian Meadows.

Friends, Jen Kahler, Vanessa English, Michelle Berry, and Laura Manning gather for last minute pictures before the Prom.

Laura Garvey and Percy Riley enjoy a romantic moment.

Craig Rossi lets loose and boogies on the dance floor.

In Your Eyes

The Junior Prom — The ever awaited evening of romance and fun. Months and months of planning, shopping, and mostly spending are put into the Prom. The girls leave school early in order to make their appointments and begin their preparations for the evenings events. The guys tend to take the more relaxed approach and pick up their tuxes and corsage last minute. The couples are photographed and wisked off to Indian Meadows in Limousines.

After dinner (so it was called) the dance floor began to fill with nervous prom goers. However, as the evening wore on, the heels were thrown aside and the jackets were hung up as the class of 91 took the floor. In the middle of our well awaited dancing moments we took time out to be paraded around the room so the Queen and her court could be chosen as "Vogue" sounded over the speakers. "In Your Eyes" was up next for the traditional court dance. Soon we all joined back in again to enjoy those last songs on the dance floor before jumping back into our limousines. The actual prom was over, but the night had only just begun.

The Queen, Lisa Antonio, and her court, Jenn Dinino, Stephanie Smith, Lori MacDonald, Amy Simino, Tammy Bush, and Laura MacKay.

The Day After

The Day After. If you got any sleep at all, it was interrupted at about 6:00 AM in order to make it to an early breakfast. For nearly everyone it was followed by a trip to the beach. Whether it was Cape Cod, Rhode Island, or merely a nearby pool, most of the class of '91 headed for the sun after a side trip to search for supplies for the weekend. The ride to the Cape was short and fun; more of a race than the normal leisurely ride to the Cape.

After crossing the bridge, the seniors lost each other and the day consisted of cars filled with tired prom-goers wandering the Cape in search of one another. They finally met each other, ate, and eventually found a bed (on the floor) to sleep in for the night.

The day wasn't at all what we had all expected it to be. But whether it was a trip to the Cape, Rhode Island, or some other place in the sun, it was a weekend that the class of '91 will never forget.

The exhausted class of '91 still has enough energy to play wiffle ball. The game, however, turned out to be more of a friendly brawl.

CARWASH

Caption censored by Mr. Kaplan.

Here's Danielle Honore and Stacie Kinderman straining to hold up those heavy signs.

Hollie Smith strikes a pose. What kind of pose is that?!?!

Making money is something that the yearbook has been a little worried about this year. With a new computer to pay for we started the carwash a little bit in the hole. But everyone hardly worked . . . uh, I mean worked hard all morning, especially the people who had to hold those real heavy signs out front. In spite of our efforts, a lot of people showed up to support our yearbook. So we cleaned their cars, soaked ourselves, took their money, and told all the darn Mack Trucks that showed up to take a hike. Along the way, Jay Gilmore lost his pants, Matt Moriarty managed to get everyone wet, except for himself, and at least five cars came back to get their cars rewashed. We decided it was the end of the day when everyone was soaked. The yearbook made it out of the red ink, and we left the driver's seats of our cars wetter than the outside of any of those that came to the car wash.

Jason Gilmore loses his pants over the Yearbook carwash.

Teamwork at its worst.

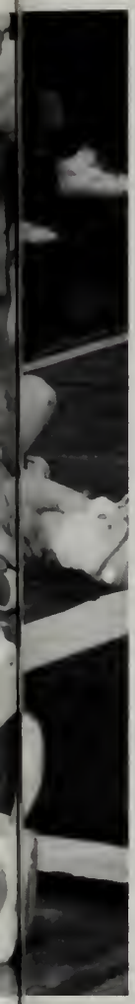
DAY



Have you ever seen people walking across the gym on basketballs? Have you noticed students swinging from ropes, trying to shoot hoops? Do you frequently observe them being carried on an extremely large ball? These kinds of "sports" can only be seen at Westborough High . . . on Competition Day.

This traditional day before April vacation is a showcase for the spirit that is so often seen here at WHS. It becomes a battle of the classes for some and a shortened school day for others. For those underclassmen who see this as a chance to reign over the seniors, the afternoon is filled with desperate attempts to outwit, outrun, and outleap the seniors. Whether the respective class teams are facing athletic challenges or simply making fools of themselves for the enjoyment of the spectators, it becomes a spirited beginning to Spring Break.

Jan Kerr becomes one with the infamous Competition Day ball.

POWDERPUFF

It was a perfect fall day. The sun was shining, the sky was dazzling, and the fans were screaming. Once again, junior and senior girls crashed and collided in the annual Powderpuff football game. This year, the battle was one of technique, strategy, and sheer will power. Led by running backs Kristen Montalbano, Kathy Wilkins, and quarterback Val Cooper, the seniors put up a fabulous defense. Unfortunately, their "six and three" defense didn't match the rough and tumble offense of the Class of '92. The juniors, inspired by their ever popular and glamourously chic cheerleaders, took the lead Pierce in the third quarter. Trying not to disappoint their encouraging and screeching fans, the seniors scrambled to get back on track with a few plays in retaliation. Their valiant attempts were to no avail, however, as the junior's defense held, and the clock ticked away. In the end, the Class of '91 fell behind as the juniors played to victory.

"We lost, but who cares, We're the seniors and we're OUTA HERE!" Stacie Kinderman '91

STUDENTS at 2:22

People with cars take off as fast as they can. Chris LaPlante is all set to go in hi powerful white machine.

Jenn Longo and Jenna Macek clear out their lockers at the end of the day.

Some people spend the better part of the day waiting for 2:22, Heather Clark and Cheryl Brier dream about it during study.

A non-profit organization, the National Honor Society rakes in the cash for senior scholarships. (Guess who's fingernails these are?)

After school, the lobby is usually filled with crowds of people without cars trying to figure out who will give them a ride home and save them from the embarrassment of taking the bus. Friends, Jenna Macek and Sue Barrett don't need to fight that one out because they both have cars.

After school in the spring, Kim Leighton spends her time breaking records for the track team.

Students crowd the lobby. The school day is over and people rush to Chug and Chew for a quick snack before they head off on their way. Sports are a popular afternoon activity here at Westborough High School. Other students stick around for extra help, make up work, or maybe just because they love being in the building so much that going home pales in comparison, who knows?

But seriously, the afternoon is a chance to get the mind off of school work. Students can throw their books into a bag and save the homework for the night. The afternoon is the time to hop into the car and see the world. Then again, sometimes going to work is all that a driver can do.

Whether a person goes out and runs five miles on the track, stays late working on the Lobby Observer, or crashes with an old movie at a friends house, the essence of the afternoon is doing what you want to do. After a six and a half hour day it's good to relax and find peace again before diving into a stack of homework.

SECRET

With senior year, comes several traditions. One of the most humorous is what we call "Secret Santa". It's a week if hilariously embarrassing practical jokes!! With the stress of applications in full stride the week before Christmas break, Secret Santa offers us, "stressed out seniors", just a little humor to make up for the pressure in our lives.

We were entertained by everything from the simple "singing" of Christmas Carols to silly impersonations of Christmas trees and the Statue of Liberty. Classes had that exciting touch knowing that there would always be something unbelievable to laugh at. Freshmen too got involved as they seemed to be the brunt of all the jokes. They were good sports though, and danced or took aerobic classes at lunch with our fun loving seniors. Secret Santa is one of the last traditions we seniors have here at Westborough High School. It's a holiday tradition that brings some release for the stress that fills the life of a senior.

That's quite an attractive Kitty toga, Michelle Berry. You wear it well!

The Yearbook Staff? ...

Brian Wong sits like a king on his prized possession the juice machine. As the business editor Brian whipped off sixteen ad spreads and kept the machine filled.

The many pictures you see of my co-editors are intentional! No, they are not a sign of vanity, just a joyous burst of relief at being so near to the completion of the 1991 yearbook. What a job! What responsibilities! What courage! What fools to become editors in the first place!!

The above is meant as high praise. Vanessa and Jessica have exhibited strong committment to purpose. I'm impressed.

Dave's photos have made our book special. He has a special gift, a natural eye for color, structure. The yearbook doesn't come together without interesting and usuable pictures.

Brian Wong, I appreciate the seemingly imperturbable calm he manifests in the midst of crisis. He seens convinced of his ability to handle the worst. So I settle in and stop worrying and figure Brian's in control. As I get older, I find I rely more and more on the balance of my editors.

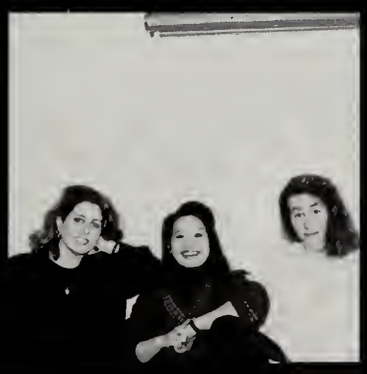
CRAZY??

Vanessa: All I can think of is "Why?" What was I thinking when I agreed to be an editor? Did I realize it meant hours of torturous hard work? Of spending my afternoons and vacations in room 301? Yes! so why did I do it? I guess I saw it as some sort of great opportunity to reminisce my senior year . . . and it was, but it was also hell. Have you ever been in a classroom here at W.H.S. at 8:00 at night? Well, Jessica and I spent the last four nights before every deadline in room 301 leaning over a computer or drawing layouts until that late. So, this is it. I sit here on the night before our last deadline and remember all of the long hours and hard work that went into this book and can honestly say that it was worth it! So, enjoy it '91 . . . it is our attempt to capture the memories of our high school years! and Mr. Kaplan: RELAX . . . it's all over!

Jessica: Okay, so this is my chance to complain, right? Well I'm not gonna do it! "Bob's" already told me how good I am at it so many times. The whole thing is his fault. He had to say, "No one would want this job. you have to be crazy to be an editor." Me! Oh, me! Can I please? I figure, if I'm going to go crazy I might as well buy my own straight jacket, ya know? Too bad I got stuck with someone who can't count. Don't worry, I loved working with you anyway Ness and the dinner(s?) were great. Thanks Mr. K-your existential dribblings were fun to laugh at. My final word on this yearbook — love it or die!



Jess Walcott, Kim Leighton, and Caroline Malley show that they are willing and ready to strut their stuff.

A Formal Affair

For the past three years, the Yearbook has sponsored a winter semi-formal. The Holiday Ball is a chance for everyone, students from freshman to senior year, to get all dolled up and attend a formal gathering.

Unlike the Prom or Senior Ball, the Holiday Ball is a fun and exciting event. There is no pressure or nervousness surrounding the evening. It's just a chance to celebrate the holiday season with a touch of style and class.

And so the evening begins, most couples, and the occasional threesome, eat dinner before the dance at a local restaurant. There were even some groups who brought home take out orders of Chinese food.

When they all arrived the dancing started slowly, but rapidly picked up to that jitterbug pace. The crowd got into a festive feeling after checking out our "marble floored lobby" and the dazzling Christmas and Hanukkah decorations. The bright lights and bows draped on the balconies only added to the holiday look of the Christmas tree.

The decorations were complemented by an incredible bounty of edibles and thirst quenchers. Although, as usual, the music score left something to be desired, everyone seemed to find something to dance to and had plenty of soda to cool off from the sweat. (Thanks to Kim Leighton.)

This year's dance was the most widely attended in history with over one hundred couples taking the floor. It's popularity not only made the Ball more fun, but it raised valuable profits to create this amazing yearbook. Now a tradition at Westborough High School, the Ball should continue for many years because, after all, everyone loves a formal affair!

UP the DOWN STAIRCASE

On November 30th and December 1st, Center Stage presented it's fall production of "Up the Down Staircase", by Bel Kaufman. An impressive performance was enjoyed by those who attended, and for the cast . . . it was a memorable weekend.

The preparations began during the 2nd week of school with auditions. After an agonizing weekend of waiting, the results were in, and the work began. With a talented cast headed by Leslie Kinderman, Brian Potter, Kelly Crawford, and Dave Sullivan, the process of blocking, memorizing, and character analysis started. After ten weeks of rehearsal, the rough sets were built, and the production week rehearsals got underway.

That week preceeding production weekend was a grueling but satisfying one for the cast. With four hours of rehearsal each night, and a double rehearsal one night, by Thursday everyone was exhausted and tense, but a dress rehearsal proved that indeed the cast had pulled together to strive for a great performance.

Opening night was the final test. Excellent performances by Leslie as the novice teacher Sylvia Barrett, Kelly as the education veteran Bea Schacter, Brian Potter as the amateur poet, and Dave as the strict principal, inspired the entire cast. In the end, they received a standing ovation and all of the play goers declared it as a theatrical success.

Vanessa Morrel shows off her newspaper and her 60's "do" with such flair.

The Last Hurrah

People will tell you that senior year is a huge party, the best year of high school, and the most fun you'll ever have. Others will say that they can't believe how much work senior year is, with school and college applications keeping them busy all the time. Well, they're both right! Senior year is the culmination of our high school careers; the time when the members of the class of 1991 get to shine in all of their endeavors. Seniors are the star performers in athletics, music, theater, school, and Westboro High's social life. This creates busy schedules that most seniors have to balance with the tedious process of applying to many colleges. Despite the busy schedules, no respectable senior would abandon weekends to do work. So in the end, senior year is busy, exciting, and a great finale to our four years at Westboro High.

TO GIVE UP

Being A Senior

Senior year has all of its glory, but it's a lot of hard work. It's the most challenging of the four years, and also the most fun.

Starting from day one there are traditions like senior breakfast and the taking of the balcony that we never seem to use. As college pressures abound there are very important term grades to maintain, as well as the last takings of achievements and SATS. Applications! Most of them are due during the busy winter season. Therefore, Secret Santa is a much needed diversion from the stress found on the route to college. All of this makes senior year such a rat race.

After vacation there are midterms to study for and yearbook spreads to finish. Quest people must get ready to cram two terms of learning into one, which is tough with research projects and personal reflective essays to create.

But, we do it anyway because there is one great prize to receive at the end of a long journey. We get to graduate and move on to college. That makes all the struggling and all the late nights of studying worth while.

Bill Fuller and Jamie Shannon hang out with other seniors at a pep rally.

SENIORS

Senior Class Officers: Vice President Mark McCue, Advisor Mr. Federici, Treasurer Kristen Montalbano, President Vanessa English, Secretary Jon Stockwell.

The Senior Year Activities!!! Let me count the ways! The year began in the summer for the Senior Class Officers. The plans for the Senior Ball which is at the Crowne Plaza in Natick were begun in early July as the reservations must be made close to a year in advance. The Senior Ball, unlike the Prom promises to be a more relaxed event in the social events category. It's the last formal that the class of '91 will share and we hope it proves a bit more successful than the prom. The Senior Play was the next on the agenda. What Play? Who's the Director? Who's the Music Coordinator? Who's the Choreographer? How Much? Once again the officers were faced with all these problems. We finally found Mr. Rookey! Ernie helped us pick "Damn Yankees" and a sigh of relief was heard by the officers. Tryouts, rehearsals, and stage production were well underway for what would be the fabulous Senior Class production of "Damn Yankees"! Although we almost didn't have Russ Burgess, the night of hypnosis was saved and the show went on. Russ was his usual mystifying self as he entertained us by making fools out of those who dared to go on stage. As Korey Prefontaine "meowed" and Craig Najarian did his famous "Mike Powers" imitation, the audience was awed by the powers of Mr. Burgess. To make a few bucks, the seniors sponsored the first dance of the year, which proved to be a giant success, grossing close to $700. Rumor has it that it was the most widely attended dance in the history of WHS. There was an attempt at another fund raiser, however, it failed miserably, so we won't even begin to discuss that! And of course there is that long awaited weekend . . . GRADUATION!!! Class Night with it's traditional "Class Will" which certainly will bring us a few laughs, as well as applause for those receiving awards. But . . . graduation is the final event organized by the officers. It's the day that you think about from day one of freshman year and the anticipation just seems to grow stronger. Senior year is all that it's cracked up to be. It is a culmination of four years of memories of all kinds that will last forever. The next several pages are the faces and personalities that make up those seniors. I present to you . . . THE CLASS OF 1991!

WHAT OUR SENIORS THINK OF COLLEGE . . .

"I can't wait to move out and live on my own!"

"Something I've been waiting for since seventh grade . . . but I'm not sure WHY!"

Remembering Jeff Lanzetta

How do I describe Jeff Lanzetta? Hmmm . . . Let me think. Do I say we were best friends for eighteen years? Well maybe. Do I tell you what a a perservering individual he was? Oh, that might work! Do you need to know how much of a clown he was? Most definitely! Do you care that he had no shot at winning a perfect attendance award? Probably not. Maybe I'll just tell you what he meant to me!

Well I'll keep you in the dark no longer. Lanzy was all this and more. Jeff could have been the most special person I've ever known. He was no Rocky Balboa physically, but mentally this kid could step in the ring with anybody. Jeff dealt with so much physical and mental pain and yet still could find things to smile and laugh at — I don't know how he did it. His sense of humor would sometimes go right over my head, but it was hilarious whether it made sense or not. Yes, Jeff possessed a less than perfect body, but he never let it possess him. He always pushed his body despite the limitations it put on him. He wanted so badly to graduate with our class and he battled daily just to go to school everyday so he wouldn't get farther behind.

I'm so glad I was able to spend as much time as I did with you Lanzy — because I certainly learned a lot and definitely laughed a lot. I'll never forget those nights at UMASS Medical Center or those trips to Rhode Island. I miss you very much and know you'll always be looking down on me and probably be making some wise crack. I love you very much and you'll always live in my heart.

Kevin McNamara

I can't really describe Jeff in words but I'll try anyway. Jeff was the best friend a person could have. He was the only friend I could talk to about anything. Jeff had a great sense of humor and could always find a way to make everyone laugh. He could always find something good in everything and never took life for granted. He hardly ever complained even when he was in more pain than most people knew about. I'll never forget all the good times I had with Jeff; going to the movies, playing wiffleball, watching the RedSox, talking on the phone, playing pool, and everything else we did. Jeff, you are the best. I'll miss you for the rest of my life.

Jamie Maloney

JEFF LANZETTA

If I could choose to be any type of person that I wanted to be, I would be the kind that Jeff Lanzetta was. With a big smile on his face, and a contagious laugh flowing from his mouth, Jeff was always a great friend. He was always there when you needed someone to talk to and he was always unselfish, thinking of others before himself. I will never forget the young man whose laugh could lighten the darkest of rooms. Jeff, we all miss you very much and none of us will ever forget the great times that we have shared. We will always love you.

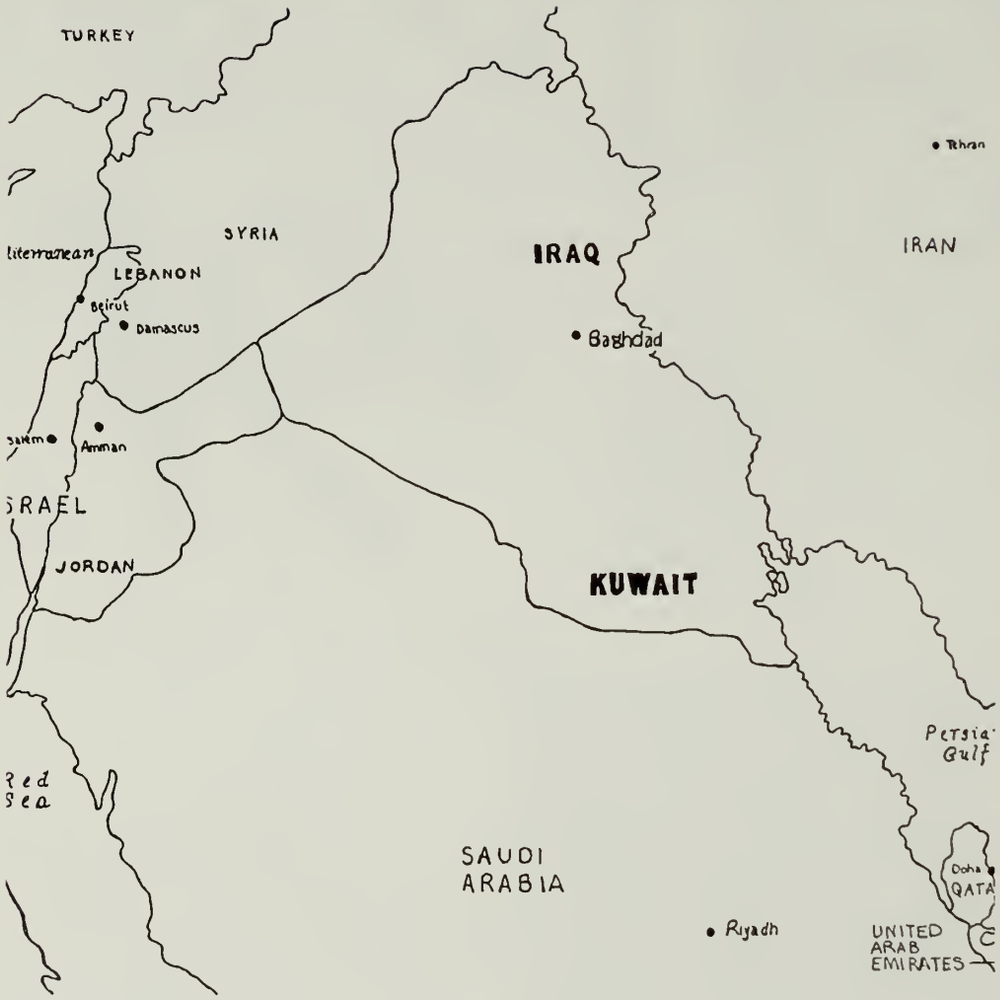
War in the Middle East

DESERT STORM



August 2, 1990, 2:00 a.m. Saddam Hussein's Iraqi army invades the tiny country of Kuwait, a major source of the world's oil. And to Hussein, a link to the Persian Gulf.

Iraq's attack on Kuwait pushed the United States to involve themselves in the midst of an ongoing Arab battle. President Bush began with a peaceful attempt to force Hussein out by using Economic Sanctions. However, after five months, there was no sign of a backdown on the part of Iraq. The United Nations met to set a deadline. The United States could begin a military strike against Iraq if they refused to pull out by January 15, 1991.

January 16, 1991: Thousands of bombs are dropped on Iraqi military targets. The War in the Persian Gulf has begun.

The United States has launched an air attack on the less advanced military of Iraq. The plan: to destroy Iraq's forces before a ground war begins while avoiding heavy civilian, and military casualties. Unfortunately this seems an almost impossible accomplishment. Already, the U.S. has accidentally killed hundreds of Iraqi civilians by bombing what they thought to be a military target: a bomb shelter.

February 14, 1991: Rumors of peace talks with the Soviet Union fill the air. It appears that this proposition of Hussein's will include too many stipulations and therefore prove unacceptable to President Bush.

Will we be able to force Hussein out of Kuwait? And do we have a right to be there in the first place?

America seems to be split on these issues. We see peace demonstrations, reminiscent of the 60's and Vietnam. Yet, neighborhoods across America display yellow ribbons on their homes in support of our troops. There is no question that everyone hopes for a quick and peaceful end to the Gulf War. But America must wait for the leaders of the world to make this peace.

Senior Stress

Sure, it's senior year, but Jenn Longo is still playing it cool.

You mean it's only third period? Pete Dayotas seems to think that it's time to head out already.

Advice about College and the Stresses of Senior Year

by Kim Leighton

Senior year, the year everyone looks forward to with wide-eyed anticipation. It is the busiest year of high school. There are sports, banquets, and tearful goodbyes. There are clubs, parties, and fun. But in between all the fun things are the exams and the dreaded college applications, or "Senior Stress." This is a warning to the younger generations to tell you what senior year is really all about. A senior, in the midst of the fun, must be thinking of the future. People who know what they want to do with the rest of their lives, which are few and far between, can skip this next section, but the rest of you with no clue, who want to go to college, listen up.

The first step of the rest of you life is to find out what your interests are. This means trying to nail down a few definite ideas for a major. Do you like art, or do you want to play football for the rest of your life? The next step is to look at colleges. This means scheduling interviews and tours for each school that has what you want for the next four years. You must also consider other factors besides your major. Factors like how close (or far) you want to be to your parents or the size of the school are very important parts to the decision.

Out of thousands of colleges, you must pick a few, apply (key word) and get accepted somewhere (another key word). The application means hours of pouring over essays and remembering picayune details about your life. Is the spelling correct? Can you really tell an admissions committee the meaning of life in 500 words or less? Plus, there may be one to five essays per school so don't apply to any schools in Alaska on a lark.

After all the applications have been sent in, (overnight mail was created for this exact purpose!), then you must wait until April to see if all that time and energy actually payed off. It's always a wait to find out what fate and the admissions officers have done with your life.

Well, I happen to be one of the luckier students. I visited a school, decided I wanted to go there, applied, and got in through rolling admission, all by December 24. It was a pretty good Christmas present! But, for all of the seniors still waiting, and juniors who are beginning to feel that waking dread, I wish the best of luck to you in your somewhat unsure future.

Elise Henderson takes a deep breath to keep the pressures from getting to her.

Rob McCullough relaxes after a tough day of classes.

John Schaefer prays for a good grade on his paper.

Tom Borgia tries to cover himself from the reality of the future.

Josh Wheelock and Jim Gingras wait to see what the future will bring.

Every injury didn't go to Terry Hardy Physical Therapy?

Field hockey didn't go to State Finals?

Football and field hockey weren't rivals?

Kristen Montalbano had a speech malfunction?

Mr. Sharpe were tall?

We could breath in the bathrooms? (No, I don't either)

Ken Fleming didn't lift weights?

Brian Wong didn't ask questions?

Caroline Malley didn't do aerobics

Sarah Wilkinson didn't make tye-dyed shirts?

Jim Hayes were short?

Jenn Longo were tall?

Jess and Vanessa weren't here until seven o'clock every night?

We couldn't write to Cook's Cornor for advice?

Mr. Markvenus didn't have surgery? (we'd all be passing physics)

We had one more year of high school left?

HANGIN' OUT

Jenna Macek, Rahdah Vichare, and Nitsan Lai ponder over a past yearbook, knowing that this years is better!

Chris Cove, Taylor Christie, Ian McPherson and friends gossip in the lobby after school. This seems to be a local tradition at WHS.

A freshmen gym class enjoys the ever famous phys. ed. unit . . . Square Dancing. They never seem to give up!

Sue Smith and Leanne Doherty help each other out at WHS's Olympics: Competition Day!!

AT WHS . . .

Michelle Berry and Vanessa English are thrilled to be leaving room 301.

The people of Westboro High are what make the walls of our school come alive. The mornings are slow to arise around 7:45, as people gather at the balcony to get in some last minute socializing, before the day begins.

The clubs, sports and different activities are what sets the mood of a school. School spirit is about people cheering for our State Final field hockey team, or the League Champion football team and states bound basketball team. People see each other day in and day out, in classes, sports, or clubs. They become friends, either by working together, like Kristen and Mark, or just hanging our together like Vanessa and Michelle. People and friendships are a valuable part of the school and it's spirit. The walls of our school will continue to echo as friends bring the school to life.

As class officers, Kristen Montalbano and Mark McCue have little time to pal around.

Bernadette Gibbons and Nicole Bruton strike a pose while hanging out in school.

Susie Harding, Jessica Cruse and Amy Ferrandino watch the upperclassmen in awell

Three freshmen girls hang out on stage while they wait for play auditions.

Daren Killeen and Miss Drisko share a "teacher/student" moment in Creative Cooking Class.

BEHIND THE BANNERS

It's the faculty and students that are responsible for all that goes on at WHS. Because the population here is so small, "Everyone knows what's going on with Everyone else!!" This small school atmosphere, however, also allows for friendships not only among the students, but also with the teachers. This makes for an exceptional experience. Being a part the Westboro High scene means hanging out on the designated balconies where visitors often see the banners which are draped over them. These banners show the moods of the people that make up our school. In the next several pages are those underclassmen and faculty that are responsible for all that is "BEHIND THE BANNERS!!!"

Underclassmen hang out at the balcony in the morning before the bell.

It's the science department!! They are showing their "scientific spirit" with their new Tee-shirts.

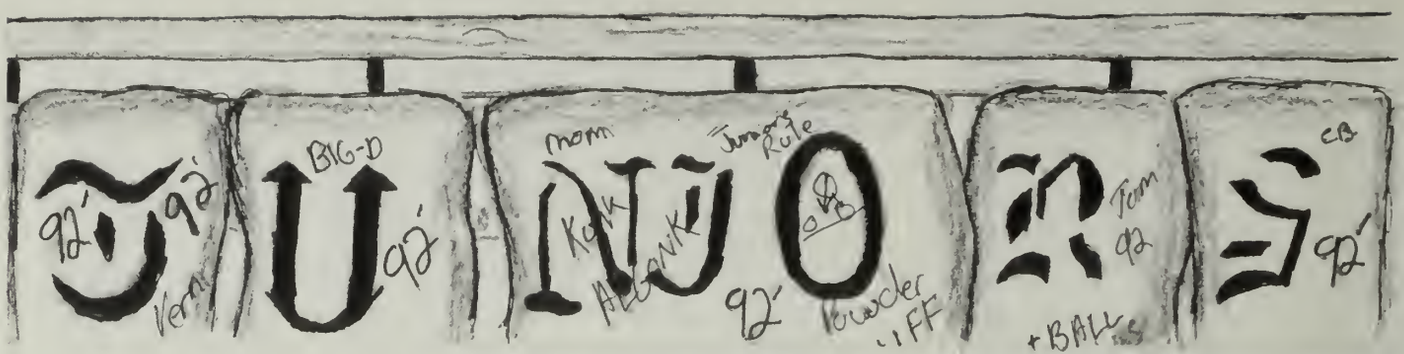
The faculty may be the most underappreciated group of people at Westboro High. Students slowly accumulate precious knowledge at the great expense of the faculty who can feel hardly noticed, never mind appreciated. Well, to show the faculty that we know they're out there, here is a list of things students notice and appreciate about their teachers.

Mr. Labrie's constructive underlining
Mr. Vital's slapstick sense of humor
Mr. Juszynski's "swell" humility
The "outstanding" problems on Mr. Markvenas' tests
Ms. Spinney's tolerance of gum
Mr. Cerasoli's singing chemistry
Mr. Lightbody's everpresent cold
Mr. Kaplan's "unbelievable" understanding of Boticelli's Venus
Mr. Trahan's technical wizardry with a VCR
Mr. Mullen's ability to find the Christ figure in Dr. Seuss
Ms. Ferrari's light and dark imagery
Mr. Scenna's punctuality
Coach Gebo's extensive vocabulary
Coach LaDuke's tranquil coaching style
The very way Mr. Mannix talks
Mr. Fredette's and Mr. P's cologne



The Junior: third year high school student. The first year of "upperclassmen hood." It began with a blast — we were finally upperclassmen! But, they didn't tell us what it really meant. Colleges look closely at your junior year. SAT's, AP exams, and Achievements all equal STRESS! And then there's the Prom. Junior year is full of excitement. Everyone anxiously awaits the coming of events like the Powder Puff game, the Prom, and that spine-tingling day when juniors become seniors. It's a year when this combination academics and social life simply cause chaos!!!!

The Junior Class Officers: Secretary Bill Gaffney, President Leanne Doherty, Treasurer Lucinda Wheelock, Vice President Meghan McCarthy, and Class Advisor Mrs. Louis.

Who's guilty of throwing Joe Ranger over the balcony? Andy Kassatly, Steve Deboer, Tom Gallen, or Mike Hurley? — You be the judge!

A smiling David Tufts, clad in black, guitar in hand, ready to jam.

"Thank You, Thank You, you've been a wonderful audience, thank you!" Julie Valk and Matt Vautour accept the class's applause.

Thoughts on Next Year . . .

"There are some great courses I want to take, I'm looking forward to it"

"I can't wait to not care about anything"

"Next year is going to be Awesome!!! I've been looking forward to senior year forever!"

SOPHOMORES

Sophomore: Webster's Dictionary states that a sophomore is "a student in his second year at college or secondary school." It comes from the Greek adjective sophmoric which Webster states as "conceited and overconfident of knowledge but poorly informed and immature." Do our Sophomores fit this definition? We'll let you decide.

Freshmen: The lowest members on the totem pole; sometimes referred to as "Little Freshmen"!! PASTIMES

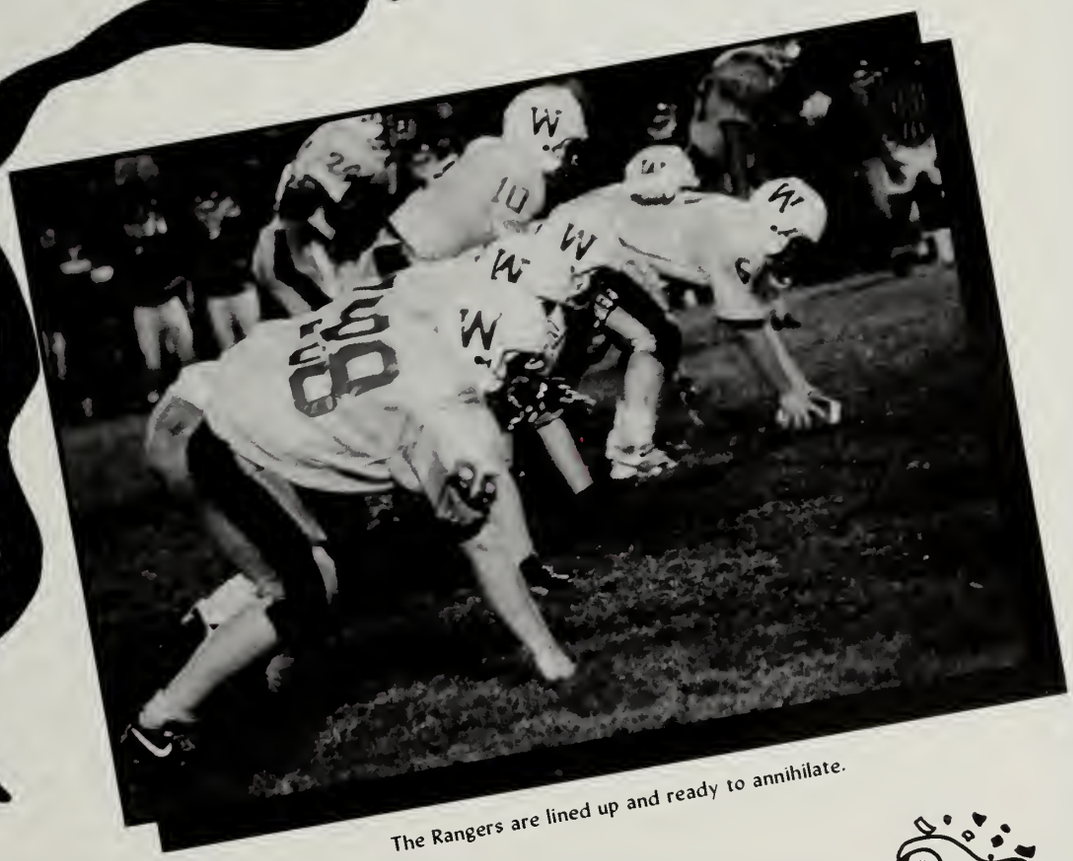
Athletics at Westborough have proven to be a paramount part of our life here at W.H.S. Whether it be soccer, gymnastics, field hockey, or any other sport, the majority of our student body participate in the athletic program.

The tradition of strong teams may be measured not only by the season's record but also by the pride that we have in our Rangers. The successful seasons of the Ranger Field Hockey and Football team, and the fine effort that all of our teams have exhibited make the strength of our tradition clear.

Meghan McCarthy flexes as she lofts the ball up to the strikers.



The Rangers are lined up and ready to annihilate.

"The cross country team for me was a lot of fun and a great experience. This team had a lot of spirit and made practices fun." Gavin Andrews '93

Jess Walcott and Jennie Guglielmi vie for first in the rac to cross the foot bridge.

Cross Country

As the gun sounds, they take off. Who are they? They're the girls' cross country team, beating the odds to finish the season with a 10-4 record. The season didn't look promising at first with the loss of coach John Doyle, and only 10 runners. However, coach Dave Robinson saved the day. Despite the fact that it was his first season coaching girls' cross country, Coach Robinson enthusiastically pushed them to "just do it" (Katie McGinn's slogan). His dedication was obvious in his efforts to research every meet. Of course, this was a great idea, so he'd know how many dozen roses to buy for the victorious group of Lady Rangers.

The team really pulled together and worked hard, with the greatest strength in the top five runners (Erika Ingerman, Jen Wheelock, Rachel Smith, Jennie Guglielmi, Jess Walcott — captain). This ranked them third in the league, finishing only behind Fitchburg and Nashoba.

Winning is great, but the grueling work put into it makes it more rewarding. After all, who can have fun running sprints up O'Neil drive, leaping over oceans of mud at the Auburn course, or racing in a Gardner ice storm? But in the end, it all paid off for them with a fabulous fall season. They're unstoppable!

Jenn Wheelock flies on ahead of a pack of Fitchburg runners.

Val Barky prepares herself for the long haul ahead while setting her race pace.

BOYS CROSS COUNTRY

Most people think of cross- country runners as wimps or geeks. However, it's quite the opposite. Pushing yourself to the limit is what cross-country runners do every day. Your legs may be burning, your lungs may ache from wheezing, you feel like you're going to vomit and collapse at the same time, but you pull all remaining energy from your body and charge over the finish line. It is only then you can rest and recover from the agonizing, grueling run. This is only for the brave, the courageous who dare to set new goals and break old PR's (personal record). This is what separates the cross-country runner from all other athletes.

This season, the Westboro Boys' Cross-Country team didn't have the best record; but there was a great deal of individual achievement. The Christie brothers (widely known throughout the cross-country circuit), usually placed in the top three (Walker generally ahead of Taylor). As they are sophomores there is a lot of promise for the future. In addition, Jason Szatmary, a freshman, placed fourth on many occasions, and shows promise for the future. Paul Cox, Steve Kody, Jim Doyle, Sean Hamon, and Justin Wollacott also were impressive during the season. Dave Noble exemplified the effort displayed by the team as a whole. Dave battled shin splints the whole season and fought his way into the State Meet by season's end. However, each member of the team had his moments.

One more thing to note is that our team was seniorless; in fact only three juniors were on the team. In the seasons to follow great things might be accomplished by our promising young team.

"There's pain and then there's real pain." Coach Masters

Justin Woolacott races ahead of the other team members.

The Dream Became A Reality

Field Hockey makes it to state finals!

When the field hockey season started this year with two ties, a trip to districts seemed out f their reach. However, as the season rogressed, the team began to come to-ether and the idea of districts became reality. An important win over Wachu-ett in regular season set the determi-ation that the rangers needed to con-nue their winning streak. As the season ent by very quickly, districts had soon egun. Big wins over Marlborough and lorth Middlesex put the team into the istrict finals. Many of the team members ad played in district finals on two other ccasions but had come up short of a title. his year's squad was determined to break e infamous WPI hex. And that they did. nder the leadership of co-captains Kris-en Montalbano and Vanessa English, as well as strong play from seniors, Michelle Berry, Lori MacDonald, Sue Valk, Jen Kahler, Jen Kerr, and their outstanding goalie, Kim Yankee. The team not only took the district championship but moved on to the state tournament. A win over the very talented Smith Academy team during a snowfall put them into the state finals; a destination no one had expected. The Rangers battled for eighty nine minutes of fast paced hockey, only to lose in the last fifty eight seconds of sudden death overtime to Walpole High School. Although they weren't able to catch the state title, the team who wasn't expected to have much more than a 500 season, ended up one of the top two teams in the state. Now, that's something to be proud of.

The parents showed their support as they decorated the bus that took the team to the state finals with this sign.!

The varsity squad, At PLAY!!!!!

FOOTBALL '90

John Schaefer runs the ball, undoubtedly for another touchdown.

The 1990 Rangers' football team entered the season with high expectations. Nearly beating Leominster in the '89 Super Bowl and having so many players returning, many felt that the team would flatten all its opponents.

After two early losses, the football team recovered by ripping off six straight victories, climaxing in a hard-fought 12-7 victory over Fitchburg to give Westboro a share of the Mid-Wach League Championship. The Rangers finished their season with a 31-14 romp over their arch rival Algonquin.

The Ranger offense was keyed by the hard running of John Schaefer (91), and Bill Fuller (91), the passing of Dave Candela (91), and the tremendous blocking of the offensive live, which included seniors Dave Moynihan, Rick Cobley, Matt Moriarty, Kevin MacNamara, and Tim Grady.

While the Rangers did not qualify for the 1990 Super Bowl, they have continued the tradition of great football at Westboro High School.

David Candela avoids a rushing defense as he looks to pass.

The football team leads "the wave" at the pep rally before Thanksgiving. The Rangers konked Algonk 31-14.

The Offensive line faces off with Holy Name in the pre-season jamboree.

The Rangers break from their huddle, with the plan of attack. They romped over Nashoba 48-0.

"Even though we didn't go to the Super Bowl, we had a great season, and a great four years."

Matt Moriarty

Before the 1990 soccer season started, the players were extremely optimistic, and it seemed as though the team might actually make it to the districts for the first time in almost a decade. However, a few early season losses put a damper on the team's hopes. The team suffered heart-breaking defeats to Nashoba and Westford academy, and had only one victory in the first half of the year. To top it all off, 3 players were red-carded and had to miss 2 games after a bench-clearing brawl with Fitchburg.

When the second half of the year started, under the leadership of Korey Prefontaine and the outstanding play of the rejuvenated Mitch Samuel, the team went on an unbelievable scoring spree, winning four of their last six games. The winning pace started with an exciting 5-4 victory over Milford, a division I team. This win jump started the Ranger Soccer Team. The new Ranger squad pummelled its next opponent, Clinton, 7-0.

The Rangers didn't play up to their full potential; the talent was definitely there, but the teamwork was a little rough around the edges. However, the team had a strong fan support throughout the entire season, and they managed to have fun regardless of their record.

"When people see our 5-13 record, they might think that we didn't have fun. But throughout the entire year, we all had the 'Ranger Fever'!"

SOCCER

Meg McCarthy displays another World Cup maneuver to dazzle onlookers.

Despite what the record shows, Westborough High School Girls Soccer wasn't 'clowning around' at all. The team seemed to spark this year with astounding energy and a burning desire to win.

This wasn't the case; however, the team's four wins were uplifting and reassuring. Although there were many injuries at the beginning of the season, the team held together well, led by co-captains Kathy Wilkins and Caroline Malley. An accident robbed the team of senior defender Sue Barrett in the opening game. This left her injured throughout the entire season. Luckily, seniors Kim Leighton and Laura Mackay stayed healthy to enjoy their last year of W.H.S. Soccer.

Amazing goalkeeper Kathy Wilkins was star of the week and soccer fanatic Meghan McCarthy made the Central Mass All-stars. With talent lake this, one can overlook the record and see the skills that the team does have.

With more and more talent coming up each year, Coaches Kathy McCarthy and George Kent have a lot to work with, and in the near future are sure to make it to districts.

BASKETBALL

The 1990-91 season for the girls Varsity Basketball team began with new coaches: Sis Fanselow (the head coach) and Laura Habacker (the assistant coach) and also with the outside help of Al Stazinski. This year's season started off slowly losing to Marlborough early on. However, the girls then went on to win eight of their next twelve games. Included in those games was a victory over the previously undefeated in the league North middlesex team. The Seniors this year were a great help to the team and we will miss them next year. Kathy Wilkins led the Rangers to an 11-6 regular season record being the outstanding point guard. Stephanie Smith and Kim Yankee also help our team to have a successful season. Center Leanne Doherty also brought the team much success with her incredible offensive and defensive skills. Ursula Ronquist, Kristen Moulton, Courtney Maclean, and Beth Riedel also contributed greatly to the team. Losing key players from last year, the team really pulled together to produce a fabulous and victorious season.

BASKETBALL

The 1990-91 Ranger basketball season proved to be highly successful once again. The team was made up of primarily seniors, all returning from last years Central Mass District Final Squad. Senior Captains Jim Hayes and John Schaefer proved to be a dominating insdie duo, while Jeff Hopkins and Dave Candela controlled the back court. This team also had a lot of depth, with Rob Pano, Tom Borghesi, and Kevin McNamara coming off the bench for Coach Laduke. Junior starter Tom Keane was another vital part of the team, whose outside shooting opened up the middle for the big guys! Although Hayes and Keane topped the league in scoring, the key to the Ranger's success was their defense. A relentless full court man-to-man, in your face defensive scheme created turnovers and won many games for Rangers. With all of this talent, the Rangers managed to take the league title and go soaring into District for another try at the Central Mass crown. The experience, dedication, and teamwork all helped make the season a success.

CHEERING

Let's Go! Fight! Win!

"Being able to work with great cheerleaders made the sport real fun. We had a very talented team. I had a great time. Special thanks to our coach and the football parents. Best of luck to next years cheering team."

Radha Vichare

"What about our colors? Shout red, red, red!" The cheerleaders at Westborough High School truly showed their enthusiasm and spirit throughout the year. This high energy began with try outs in the spring. During the summer cheerleaders attended UCA camp and worked vigorously to learn new cheers, pyramids, and dance routines. Once football season officially began in the fall, the cheerleaders decorated several of the senior football player's bedrooms with toilet paper and baked goods before each game. Besides practicing, cheering at football games, making signs, and preparing for pep rallies, the cheerleaders also showed their spirit at the Westborough boys soccer games on several occasions.

Led by senior tri-captains Radha Vichare, Jessica Storey, and Jenn Dinino, the WHS cheerleaders proved that their exclamatory strength could never die. Not even the coldest or wettest weather could dampen their spirit.

The winter season has been just as successful. Led by captains Kelly Powell and Susie Harding, the team has worked hard to put together new cheers and lifts. With the help of Coach Karen Desiata, these devoted cheerleaders have kept the fans cheering and the basketball players winning.

Gymnastics

Meg Gilmore begins her run on her floor routine.

A new spirit was breathed into the WHS gymnastics team this season. This was the result of increased interest not only from the freshman class, but also from upper classmen, increased support from the WHS student body, and most influentially, a new coach.

Despite what the record shows, we have improved tremendously since our first meet. At the beginning of the season, our goal was to score in the 90's and to have fun. Once we began to score in the 90's consistently, we set a new goal: to score in the 100's. We met this goal with our season high of 103.

Contributing to our success were freshmen; Meg Gilmore, Chrissy Hatherly, Meredith Knights, and Hilary Lloyd. Sophomores; Kate Galicki, Gavin Andrews, Tara Martin, Sue Clark, and Susie Harding. Juniors; Co-captain Mary-Beth Lynch and Kristen Baur. And Senior Co-Captain Jen Kahler. Lastly, but certainly not least, contributing to our success was Coach Billy Martin.

Ice Hockey

Hopes for a great year loomed over the off season for Ranger Hockey. After loosing just three seniors to graduation last year, the 1990-91 campaign was sure to be successful. However, a tough schedule which featured powerhouse Division 2 teams like Marlboro, Shrewsbury, and Algonquin would have to be overcome. Under the leadership of senior Tri-Captains Chris Gallo, Tim Grady, and Rob McCullough, nothing was impossible. Nothing that is, until the first week of practice.

This years hockey team was plagued by many injuries and loss of personnel, for one reason or another. Those few and proud remaining skaters were not ab to get into the flow of thin until there were only two wee remaining in the season. At th time however, some good hoc ey was played.

To make up for skill, the tea had an abundance of heart a soul. Day in and day out, the si teen "Ice Men" would show for practice (sometimes at s a.m., before school!!). The re beauty of the Ranger Hock squad was that they always h fun. Now, naturally, a win is be ter and more fun than a loss, b you could always find smiles practice and on the bus rides

Just remember, it's not hc many goals you score, it's hc much fun you have.

Diversions

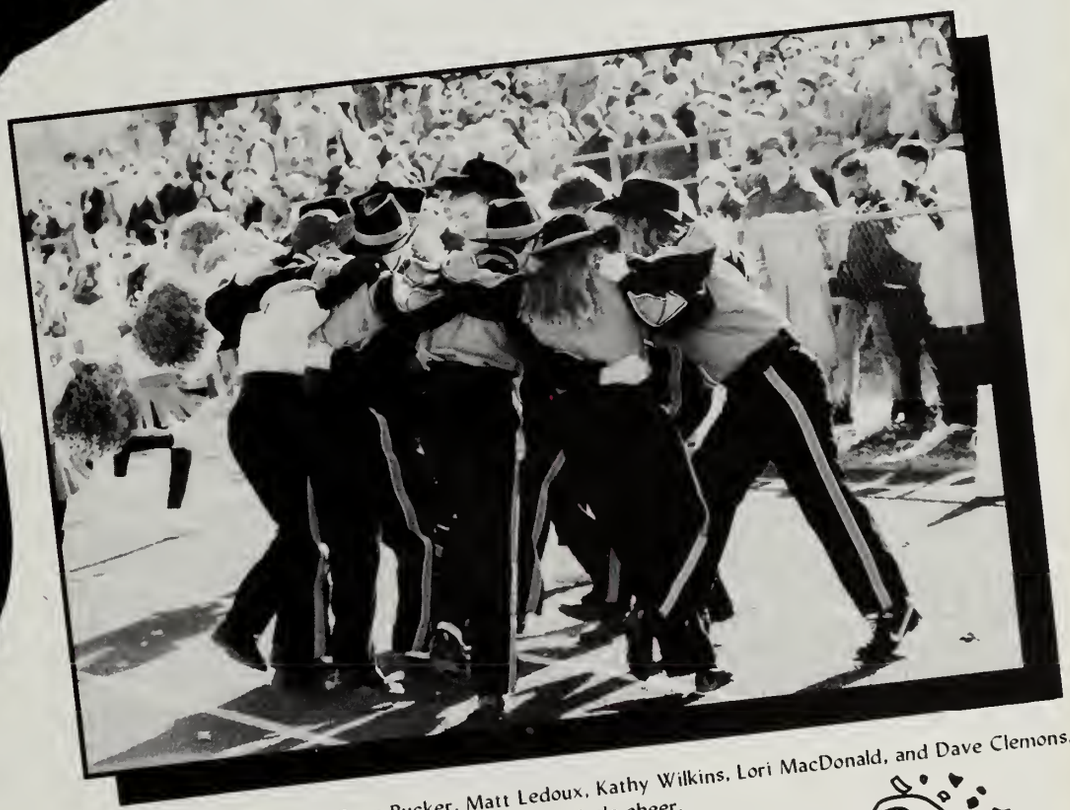
Electives are the most important part of the day because they are diversions from academic classes that sometimes get overwhelming.

There are two kinds of electives. The first being the activities that are supposedly scheduled on Mondays. Activities like SADD, Portfolio Club, and Model Congress give people a chance to get involved with the school or community. They also give students a chance to sample new and exciting things that academic classes alone can not give them.

The second type of elective is part of the actual school day. Band, chorus, art, metal, wood shop, and more are included in this category. During these periods right brained people (people with creative, artsy personalities) are given a chance to shine.

Clearly both kinds of diversions are needed to break up the day. Studying is important, but electives complement the system nicely to produce intelligent, well-rounded students.

Damon Kreth, Dana Hazel, Andy Shirey, and Andy Hieb play a mean game of Trivial Pursuit.



Band members, including Ryan Rucker, Matt Ledoux, Kathy Wilkins, Lori MacDonald, and Dave Clemons, get the Westboro fans excited with their famous circle cheer.

Dave Moynihan is obviously enthralled by his assignment.

Sure, studying can be a lot of work, but that's what we're here to do. Classes in science, foreign language, math, English, and the social sciences make up the schedules of all Westborough High School students.

However, beyond the classroom there are other academic institutions of importance. Juniors and seniors showing high academic ability, character, leadership potential, and service to the community belong to the Westborough chapter of the National Honor Society. This group represents the school as does the Academics Decathalon team that compete for our school.

Mark Ronnquist laughs as he examines the properties of circular motion.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The National Honor Society is an organization of students who have exhibited a certain flair in leadership, service, character, and scholarship. As a contemporary group, new members are inducted each fall at a special ceremony. The juniors join the seniors each year to carry on the duties of a strong, prosperous, and visible in-school association.

Our school's chapter has been very busy this year. The group continues to tutor underclassmen in need. Service projects are completed each semester, usually without threat of force. Plus, members have sold tickets at both the football games and the basketball games. This, along with the profits collected from the amazing continuous success of the Chug and Chew projected, raises money to give back to the senior class in the form of scholarships.

This year's group is a collection of over eighty successful scholars. These st dents devote time and effort to mai taining the organization's strong pre ence in the school and community to b true to the purposes of and Honor Soc ety.

"The organization wouldn't make it day without the officers, and we kno who we are. I'd like to thank all of sou I've seen tutoring in the cafeteria and l brary, especially the ones who know ho to use the log book. Thank you to all th people who've shown up for Chug an Chew, football games, and basketba games. The strength was always ther we just had to work on the commitmen And finally, thank you Mr. Vital for givin the executive board a chance to prov that we really do have a clue."

The team celebrates a victory.

Academic Decathalon is dedicated to challenging one's academic skills along with other top notch students in the nation's most prestigious cholastic team contests. The decathalon eam consists of a group of nine senior nd junior students: three A students, hree B students, and three C students. n an individual level, each student cometes only against other students in his r her category. To field a winning team t Westborough High, advisors Mrs. Libey and Mr. Fredette choose those with the most pride, desire and determination. The purpose of Academic Decathalon is to provide recognition and reward for those students with exceptional academic abilities. The actual competition consists of ten events. Math, Science, Economics, Language and Literature, History, and Fine Arts are the written exams. Speech, a written essay, a panel interview, and finally the Super Quiz make up the remainder of the competition.

After staying after school three to four times a week for several weeks, they were ready for the local competition on November 17th. As always, the Ranger spirit and determination prevailed and placed them third in the small school competition and 8th overall for the entire state. The Academic Decathalon team has succeeded in changing the general attitude toward academic achievement. The team exists to send a clear message to every student that success is attainable by hard work and commitment, regardless of grade point average.

Good Luck
Class of 91

CONGRATULATIONS
To The Class of '91

and especially to those brave, few who shouldered the burden, forged full steam ahead and did not stop to think but took the plunge instead.

I feel guilty when I think of all the hard work I've delegated to them. Boy I can pick great people. Jessica, Vanessa, Brian, Dave, and all the rest.

THANKS AGAIN

Mr. Kaplan
